Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ukita et al. (Pub No. 2002/0064096).

Referring to the rejection of claim 1, Ukita et al. discloses a mobile equipment (i.e. portable device) for non stationary use, comprising:

a real time clock RTC integrated in the mobile equipment for generating a real time information; (See page 5, Section 0068)

a system time generator integrated in the mobile equipment for generating a system time information by adding an offset to the real time information given by the RTC; (See page 5, Section 0076)

an output means for outputting the system time information generated by the system time generator; (See page 5, Section 0076)

a non-volatile memory for the non-volatile storage of data and an input means for inputting instructions for changing the system time information; (See page 6, Section 0080) and a decision means for limiting the possible changes of the system time information generated by the system time generator to a preset time range, wherein: (See page 5, Section 0071)

the real time information of the RTC is stored periodically in the non-volatile memory; (See page 5, Section 0074)

said input means enables a user to input a reset time value for said RTC in case that the real time information from the RTC has been lost; (See page 6, Section 0085) said decision means checks if the reset time value input by a user is later than the last time information of the RTC (stored in the non-volatile memory and, in case the input reset time value passes the check, the RTC is set to the new time according to the reset time value. (See page 5, Section 0074)

Referring to the rejection of claim 2, Ukita et al. discloses the claimed limitation wherein the user inputted reset time value is stored in the non-volatile memory. (See page 1, Section 0008)

Referring to the rejection of claim 3, Ukita et al. discloses the claimed limitation wherein the decision means does not allow the RTC to be changed responsive to the user inputted reset time when the user inputted differs from the real time information given by the RTC by more than a predefined value. (See pages 5-6, Sections 0074 and 0087)

Referring to the rejection of claim 4, Ukita et al. discloses the claimed limitation wherein the predefined value is a fixed value in minutes. (See page 6, Section 0081)

Referring to the rejection of claim 5, Ukita et al. discloses the claimed limitation wherein the predefined value, which is used by the decision means to constrain changes to the RTC is defined in response a given inaccuracy of the time information generated by the RTC. (See page 6, Section 0076)

Referring to the rejection of claim 6, Ukita et al. discloses the claimed limitation wherein the system comprises a power supply for the mobile equipment. (See page 3, Section 0050)

Referring to the rejection of claim 7, Ukita et al. discloses the claimed limitation wherein the decision means does not allow the RTC to be changed responsive to the user inputted reset time when the user inputted reset time differs from the real time information given by the RTC by more than a predefined value. (See pages 5-6, Sections 0074 and 0087)

Referring to the rejection of claim 8, Ukita et al. discloses the claimed limitation wherein the predefined value, which is used by the decision means to constrain changes to the RTC is defined in response to a given inaccuracy of the time information generated by the RTC. (See page 6, Section 0076)
